APRIL/MAY 2014

Centennial features three separate nines named Meadows, Lakes, and Fairways, each with its own distinct character.

The 8th hole (Lakes), pictured here, perfectly exemplifies the intersection of woods, water, and rolling hills that gave each nine its name. Centennial will host its first MGA championship on May 8th with the Senior Net Four-Ball Tournament, to be contested over the Lakes and Meadows Courses.

JUNE 2014

In June the MGA returns for one of its most beloved team events, the newly minted MGA/MetLife Men's Four-Ball Championship (formerly the Men's Net Team Championship), which will be operated henceforth by the MGA Foundation.

Fairmount's 11th hole, pictured here, is a treacherous par-five that features two ponds, numerous fairway bunkers, and a sharp dog-leg approach to the green, challenging the conservative player to proceed with care and tempting the longer hitters to dare for the green in two.

JULY 2014

As indicated by its name, water comes into play on 12 different holes at Rockaway River Country Club, site of the 97th Met Junior.

Designed by Tom Gourlay and Devereux Emmet,

Rockaway River features narrow tree-lined fairways and small greens.

This will be the 12th time the club has hosted America's oldest junior championship, more than any other club.

AUGUST 2014

Sitting on a scenic tract of Long Island links land, The Creek is a golfing gem that offers a challenging mix of links-style and parkland holes.

SEPTEMBER 2014

Forsgate Country Club features two 18-hole layouts designed separately by notable architects Charles Banks and Hal Purdy.

The Banks course features the tumbling fairways and highly undulating greens that its designer was known for.

The course may in fact have been the final project of Banks' impressive career. This year the Banks Course will host the 51st MGA Mixed Pinehurst Championship.

OCTOBER 2014

Mountain Ridge Country Club's 18 historic holes have remained largely unchanged since Donald Ross first laid them out over 80 years ago. The famed 16th hole, a devilish par-three fronted by a pond and flanked by bunkers, has been compared to Augusta National's iconic 12th hole.

This year Mountain Ridge will host the 8th MGA Mid-Amateur Championship, an invitation-only event of the best Met amateurs 35-years and older.
